PROJECTS

- Medical Healthineers
  This application is designed to support hospital staff by providing easy access to equipment details. Developed to support hospitals, this app features detailed equipment information. Staff can easily order what they need. I am working on this project, addressing minor bug fixes. While debugging, I encountered a bug and fixed it by making some code changes.

- Library Management System

  To build a management system for the College Library, I developed both the backend and frontend using Java and Angular. I created a user interface with separate screens for managing books, issuing books to students, and viewing/editing/deleting data. These screens allow librarians to add new books, remove outdated ones, edit existing entries, and view data on issued books.
